FRANKLIN ADMITS SUPPRESSION NEWS

More Than Six Hours Elapsed Before Titanic Tragedy Was Told.

COULD NOT BELIEVE IT TRUE

Wireless From Cable Ship States That 50 Bodies Have Been Recovered But Details Are Lacking—Senate Committee Resumes Probe Into Disaster

United Press Telegram
WASHINGTON, April 22.—Over six hours before the news was made public the White Star line knew that 20 lifeboats filled with passengers had been placed up by the ship. This was admitted by Vice President J. A. Franklin of the International Mercantile Marine Company, the first witness before the Senate investigating committee this afternoon.

"At noon last Monday this was known," said Franklin, "but was not made public to save it was not authentic."

Not until 8 p. m. Monday evening, Franklin said, was a sufficient number of messages received to announce the loss. He declared the message at noon was a very wireless from Cape Ier saying the ship had picked up the Titanic's boats and named with passengers. This information he believed was more than enough.

Franklin said he did not give it out because he could not believe the Titanic had sunk and therefore would not give out authentic information.

At 6 p. m. a authentic message came with the news of the Titanic disaster. Then and until then he was the public information.

At 6 p. m. Monday evening I knew the Titanic had sunk at 11:40 that morning. I then decided the ship had sent a call for assistance. He said the message came from the ship through the wireless.

He asked if they could not hold the news until it was confirmed. They said no. That it was confirmed. He said he got the news from the ship.

"I got the news from the ship," he said. "I then told all on up to report to the ship. I then received the report that the Titanic had struck an iceberg. It was a very disaster."

We worked out the position of the Titanic in the chart as 1080 miles from Halifax. We had no communication in that time from any ship or any authentic news whatever.

Did any report from the exact location? He was asked.

They did not. He is another message I sent the Olympic. Make every effort to reach the Titanic and get her position and time. Another Captain Haddock was sent at 3 p. m. to get the Olympic to the Titanic and give her position. It was New York.

All during the morning we were asked for information from Montreal and the newspapers. We sent another message to the Olympic. A. M. asking her to ascertain the cause of the Titanic.

Did you have any information by the time from the Titanic?

None. Absolutely none. I am afraid I am afraid I am afraid.

WESTERN MARYLAND PLANS LINE TO TAP SOUTHERN ROADS

Said It Will Build From Frederick to Potomac Mills, Near Washington

It is understood on good authority that the Western Maryland Railway Company has in mind the extension of its line from near Frederick to Potomac Mills, a few miles below Washington, where connections will be made with the Seaboard Air Line, the Southern Railway and the Chesapeake & Ohio.

It is not the intention of the Western Maryland officials to tie up with any particular Southern line but to make traffic agreements with each of the four mentioned for the interchange of tonnage to and from the territories flanked by the Southern roads and Pittsburgh and the West.

This is said to be the shortest route from the Southern Atlantic Seaboard and adjacent territory to Pittsburgh, Chicago and the Northwest.

This is said to be one of the many plans which the Western Maryland Company is outlining in the way of up adding out and materially increasing its tonnage among others being the furnishing of facilities for Eastern Shore traffic through building down the Western Shore to the narrowest point in the Chesapeake.

President Robertson said that while the building of the Frederick extension was not at present being considered a road between Baltimore and Washington might prove a better project in the near future.

However nothing will be done in the way of further extensions until the one between Cumberland and Connellsville is in good working order.

The committee between the roads and the men was due to expire at 3:30 this afternoon. Unless the railroad's representatives offer material concessions before that hour an appeal to the government for arbitration under the Sherman act, the engineers stated negotiations would be broken off. Then the Division Chiefs of the Brotherhood will rush to their stations and within three hours after they get there which will be between 24 and 36 hours the strike order will be issued.

RAILROADS FACE SERIOUS STRIKE

More Than 50,000 Engineers Expecting Orders to Quit Work.

MEN SAY IT IS INEVITABLE

General Hemp East of the Mississippi and North of Ohio Can Only Be Prevented by Railroads Granting Demands—Armistice Ends at 3:30.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The eastern portion of the United States is today facing the most startling strike in its history. More than 50,000 locomotive engineers, the men who handle the throats of all the railroads north of the Ohio river and east of Chicago are expecting orders to quit.

Up in the Broadway Central Hotel a score of gray haired bronzed men were in secret conference today. They were the great chiefs of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. If a strike comes and they admitted it was inevitable they will manage it and they showed by their attitude that they realized the grave responsibility for the Brotherhood seldom strikes.

Over in the Hudson Terminal building was another group. These men were fully as earnest as the engineers. It was the committee of the General Manager of the railroads and they were getting ready for anything that might come.

The armistice between the roads and the men was due to expire at 3:30 this afternoon. Unless the railroad's representatives offer material concessions before that hour an appeal to the government for arbitration under the Sherman act, the engineers stated negotiations would be broken off. Then the Division Chiefs of the Brotherhood will rush to their stations and within three hours after they get there which will be between 24 and 36 hours the strike order will be issued.

"Women at Sea."
There are thousands of women today entirely at sea, so to speak, as far as their ailments are concerned.

Many are suffering in silence rather than consult a physician, while many others have sought advice and taken medicines without help and are literally discouraged.

Such women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be relied upon to act promptly and thoroughly in such cases. It strengthens the nervous and muscular and restores the female system to a normal healthy condition.

Titanic Took Out Drink on Duty?
The destruction of the Titanic and the loss of some 1,500 souls was not, as the steamship company has nothing to say, the act of God; evidence has been developed that it was the Criminal Carelessness of Man.

A surviving sailor, who has been held to testify, says the lookout in the crow's nest asleep when the ship struck; that the members of the crew, on and off watch, were intoxicated with champagne which had been passed out to them by stewards who were serving it at a dinner party in the cabin; and that he, an ordinary seaman, was the only member of the crew on deck with presence of mind sufficient to sound the alarm bell which apprised the third officer, who, he said, had just returned to the bridge from the dining saloon.

This is the evidence of but one man, a common sailor and a foreigner but it is direct and it is not to be impeached or discredited by the humble character of the witness. It is possible that his story may find corroboration by other survivors.

But whether it does or not, the fact remains that it is a reasonable explanation of the recent disaster. The public has not been able to understand how it could be possible, with the exercise of even ordinary care and prudence, to have failed to see the iceberg destroyer until the ship was within two lengths of its huge and towering bulk.

The further fact according to the vessel was running through an ice field dotted with dangerous bergs at a high rate of speed is another evidence of recklessness that suggests intention of a two-fold nature higher up in official circles.

The White Star management has been guilty of negligence in many damaging facts concerning this terrible catastrophe, and if the story of the sailor is true the fact that the steamship company would desire most to conceal.

STEEL PRICES ADVANCED.

Steel Corporation Puts Up Price of Structural Steel and Plates.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The United States Steel Corporation has sent out notices of an advance in structural steel and steel plates from $1.20 per hundred pounds to $1.25 per hundred pounds, which is equivalent to a 4 per cent advance.

The advance took effect Saturday, April 20, and was announced in a letter to the members of the United States Steel Corporation. The advance will make the price of $1.25 per hundred pounds on plates and structural steel beginning Monday and are also making a new price of $1.20 on bars.

BOOSTING THE TOWN.

By Isaac of Yukon.

YUKON, April 22.—The best opportunity to appear in any town is the gathering of people from all over the land. Of course, the town which has nothing for people to do when they come had better double its police force each week as newcomers will start something unless it has been stated. The board of trade of Yukon has done just what Brigham Young once did to put up business in Utah. The board of trade has sent agents back to Europe, Asia and Africa to drum up people and send them to our town. We can use them when they arrive. Those who can't dig coal will have a chance to drive beer wagons and those who can't do that can take a short course in rushing the growler.

Of course, the most of our population consists of laboring people who came here and started the coal pits. Some of them are a lot of educated men and women to tell the others how to live. We have two doctors and had a pastor but he took a walk out one day and the board of trade is looking for another one—one who will stay and eat things in shops for Billy Starnes to come.

Educated men are what we need in all sorts of ways now. We want a lot of men who can sit around our stores by the hour and produce thought. Producers will build any town and we are going to have them as soon as the board can get them. The board is about 3,000 Syrian peddlers are needed to put the finishing touches on Black Cat hollow. Society in Black Cat hollow is not what it should be, but by the time the diabolical arena of 2,000 Syrian peddlers is located in the hollow, human existence will be worth about 25 cents on the dollar.

Our board of trade once asked the Greening board of trade which has been humping its head against a stone wall for a year to join in the plan of getting people to come to town but our board was thrown down. Now, we are going to look out for ourselves. The county surveyor at Greensburg in making all the new county maps has taken Yukon on and we are here to stay. Surveyors Shields, Mitchell and Winkleshaw say we can stay till the cows come home.

The fact is our agents across the ocean say they have no great trouble to get converts to our faith. We will get the people all right and people in what counts in census enumeration.

STEEL MEN DIRECTORS IN MANY INDUSTRIES

Corporation, Through Stockholders, Controls Other Trusts, Report Says.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Directors of the United States Steel Corporation, through stock ownership and places on the directorates of the great railway systems of the United States, have a controlling voice in nearly 55 per cent of the railroads of the country, according to the statement issued by the Stanley Steel Trust investigating committee of the House.

The aggregate value of the railroads is fixed at approximately $13,000,000,000 of that Steel Corporation holding 7,239,000 shares to control more than $4,000,000,000.

The 21 directors of the Steel Corporation also sit on boards of directors of banks, insurance companies, express companies and various other industrial corporations, with an aggregate capitalization of $7,239,000,000.

Figures collected for the committee's records by one of the special investigators show that Steel Corporation officers and directors sit as officers or directors in banks, trust and insurance companies having aggregate capital and deposits of $1,271,778,890.

Of the individual officers or directors, George F. Baer holds the greatest number of memberships in other boards of directors. Baer is a director in industrial corporations with combined capital of nearly $2,000,000,000; railroad and express companies; and banks with capital of more than $1,500,000,000.

Each of the other directors are in industrial corporations with combined capital of more than $1,000,000,000. J. Pierpont Morgan, J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., William D. Corey, H. C. Frick, W. H. Moore, George W. Perkins, Norman B. Roum, Daniel G. Reid, P. A. B. Widener, Potchival Roberts, Jr., and E. G. Converse are among the names upon the tabulations prepared for the committee, showing their representation in other corporations.

LOCOMOTIVE ORDERS COMING IN RAPIDLY

Outlook for the Builders is Greatly Improved Since February.

RAILROADS FELL WAY BEHIND

Now They Are Faced With Necessity of Getting New Motive Power Quickly, Which Forces the Builders to Increase Their Capacity at Once.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Orders for nearly 600 locomotives have been reported placed with the American Locomotive Company, since the first of the present year. In January the company closed contracts for 79 engines; in February, 289; in March 78 and in the first two weeks of April 116, making a total of 562 for the three and a half months. Among the large orders received from the different railroads were the following: St. Paul, 125; New York Central, 85; Canadian Pacific, 81; Western Maryland, 15; Lackawanna, 22; Export orders, 32; Norfolk & Western, 10; Grand Trunk, 30; Chesapeake & Ohio, 60; Rock Island, 12; St. Louis Terminal, 15. It is apparent from these figures that the company has been sharing in the general betterment which has recently been evident in this branch of the equipment industry. American Locomotive's total capacity of production is at the rate of about one locomotive an hour, or allowing 31 working hours to the week, 310 a week. The improvement in the trade was first apparent in February and since the beginning of that month orders received by the company have averaged about 15 locomotives a week.

For several years locomotive concerns have been suffering from a dearth of orders. Contracts placed with all the locomotive building concerns in 1911 aggregated 2,550 engines and in 1910 2,787, an average of 2,218 a year. The total productive capacity of the country, exclusive of railroad shops is approximately between 6,000 and 7,000 engines annually. It is therefore evident that the amount of business distributed among the manufacturers during the last few years has been far from sufficient to keep the mills running at anything like normal capacity. Nor can this state of affairs be blamed to an expansion of rail capacity beyond the needs of consumption.

The trouble with the United States employ, it is understood, an aggregate of well over 60,000 locomotives, besides the smaller engines used by contractors and for other industrial purposes. It is also estimated that for a railroad to keep its rolling stock in condition a replacement allowance of 10 per cent per annum is necessary. If these estimates are correct it is obvious that all roads, as many authorities assert, have been permitting their needs in the matter of new equipment to build up for several years. The yearly average of locomotive production, however, includes a number of foreign purchases of locomotives which have assisted materially in keeping plants busy.

This year 1911 was a particularly poor one for the locomotive industries generally. Besides the general pressure in trade in that year, the American Locomotive Company had to contend with a strike at its shops which lasted from October until nearly the end of the year. The company's rate of production in the summer of 1911 averaged around 45 per cent of capacity, which was increased to about 45 per cent at the close of the year. Operations are now being carried at about 50 per cent of capacity and this, it is expected, will be increased shortly.

A mere comparison of the figures of recent orders with those of 1905, the banner year of the trade, when a total of 2,245 locomotives were ordered, gives, however, a somewhat distorted view of the real facts of the situation. The type of locomotives in general use today is very much larger than those common in that year. The big Mallet type of engine, built to meet the more exigent needs of present-day traffic, is about twice the size of the freight engine of 1905 and correspondingly more expensive. The Pacific and Mikado, two other kinds of engine much used today, are also very much heavier and more costly than those of a few years ago.

NEWS OF A DAY FROM SCOTSDALE

Mr. and Mrs. John Howells Will Sail for London

FROM NEW YORK WEDNESDAY

State Orchard Inspector Briggs Notified to Watch For Unfertilized Stock Being Shipped Into the State. Other Notes of the Mill Town.

Special to The Courier. SCOTSDALE, April 22.—Mr. and Mrs. John Howells, of town, have engaged, through Thomas H. Rutherford, steamship agent, passage on the Mauretania, of the Cunard line, to sail on Wednesday, for London, by way of Liverpool, to visit for some months their friends and relatives in England and perhaps to settle down there again. Mr. Howells has been a mill worker in Scottdale for many years and was retired a few months ago, and was given a gold watch by his fellow workmen, as a testimony of their high regard.

FIRST PRACTICE. The Scottdale Baseball Club has been called for the initial practice at Lake Park on Friday afternoon, and all members are expected to be present. The first game of the season will be with the Mt. Pleasant club at Mt. Pleasant on Saturday.

INSPECTED STOCK. Prof. J. S. Briggs, representing the State Department of Agriculture was here on Saturday and was the guest of Mr. L. Porter. While in Scottdale Prof. Briggs received a message that stock from Danville, N. Y., had been shipped into this State without fumigation being performed and for him to examine the stock, which was consigned to a well known farmer at Alexton. This was done and showed that the State Department of Agriculture is protecting the interests of the farmers and preventing the importation of scaly trees into the State. The day before he had inspected an importation from Holland, at Joseph Thomas, the florist near Jeannette. The Brown Bull moth is one of the things that the Department is watching for with extreme care, as their presence means millions of dollars of damage, and countless dollars necessary to fight the pest. Thus far there has been no report brought into the State, so far as the Department knows. In buying stock from any nursery the purchaser should be sure that it is properly fumigated and warranted as before shipment. All the nurseries in Pennsylvania have to do this according to law, but some of the other States are not so careful, and thus pests get shipped into the State. Everyone buying nursery stock unless they wish to run the risk of getting their orchards destroyed by some pest, should exercise the greatest of care as to whom and where they buy from.

BRADEN SAILOR HURT. Braden Saylor, of Owensdale, was heavily thrown against a rail while trying to alight from a fast freight train at Danville today. In alighting his foot struck a rolling stone and his head struck a rail cutting the back of his head open. He was taken to the office of Dr. H. J. Bell of Danville, and then removed to the Cottage State Hospital at Conneltsville. He was discharged from the hospital on Saturday.

STORE CLOSURE. The store of Keister & Company, at Owensdale, closed Saturday. The merchandise was disposed of at an auction sale. This store has been closed only about five months since its opening 22 years ago.

IN HOSPITAL. Mrs. J. Allan Porter, Miss Adeline Anderson and Edward Anderson were in Pittsburg on Saturday visiting their mother, Mrs. Hester A. Anderson, who underwent an operation at Mercy Hospital. Her two sons, Charles Anderson, of East Liverpool, Ohio, and Walter Anderson, of Wellsville, Ohio, accompanied by their wives, and Mrs. Margaret Stevenson, of Scottdale, who has been visiting her son, Edgar Stevenson, were also at the hospital, at the same time.

LIBRARIAN RESIGNS. Miss Daisy Mary Smith, librarian of the Scottdale Free Public Library, is tendered her resignation to take effect the first of May. Miss Smith resigned in order to take a position in the public library of Columbus, Ohio. She has been the librarian of the Scottdale Free Library since Abraham L. Kistler presented it to this community a year and a half ago. The library board of directors, are now seeking for another librarian.

A citizen of Scottdale whose name is withheld has donated $500 to the library, and he evidently appreciates the work the library is doing and desires to aid his home town in this manner. Incidentally it may be said that books and magazines are welcome to the library, and there have already been several gifts of complete files of magazines. There have been a number of rare volumes donated to the library.

HOME FROM VISIT. Miss Kay Trimble, who has been in Pittsburgh visiting friends and relatives, returned to her home in Scottdale Saturday evening.

AGED "CHILDREN"

Fathers Were in Revolution.

There are still living in New England ten or more persons whose fathers were American soldiers in the Revolutionary War. All of them are over 80 and some over 100 years old. All live and are content with keeping their energy and strength up to the highest point through the use of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil.

Mrs. A. M. Bassford, 88 years old, of Haverhill, Va., says: "I have been using Vinol for the past three years and am on my thirty-second bottle now. I think Vinol will do all it is recommended to do and that it is all that has kept me alive the past three years. I tried almost every other medicine and found Vinol the best." Vinol is fine for old people because its immediate effect is to sharpen the appetite and enrich the blood, building up natural strength and energy. We guarantee Vinol to do all this and pay back your money if it does not. Graham & Company, Drugs, Conneltsville, Pa. Vinol is sold in West Conneltsville by Fred H. Harmoning, Drugs.

BIG RAILROAD STRIKE IS EXPECTED TODAY

Locomotive Engineers May Be Ordered to Quit at 3:30 This Afternoon.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Warren S. Stone, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and a committee of 50 representatives of the order, tonight completed final preparations for calling a strike on every steam railroad in the United States east of Chicago and North of the Ohio River, if the railroad companies refuse to meet their demands. Chief Stone says unless the conference committee notifies him by 3:30 o'clock this afternoon it has changed front, he will release the strike order, and the work of railroad strike in the history of the country will begin three hours after the Brotherhood representatives leave their headquarters. The roads have declared they will not capitulate, but what action they will take no one can safely predict.

U. S. STEEL ORDERS

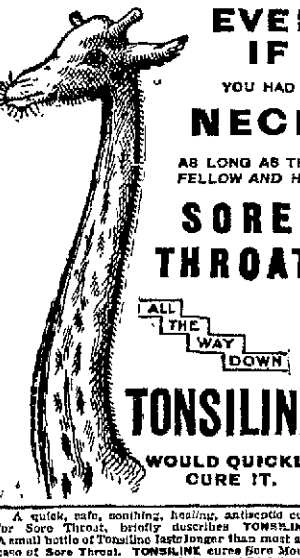

Receiving New Business at Rate of Forty Thousand Tons a Day.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The United States Steel Corporation is receiving new business at the rate of 10,000 tons per day, as compared with about 25,000 tons a day earlier in the month. The increase in the early part of the month was due largely to the renewal of contracts involving a large tonnage. The Steel Corporation is now operating close to 93 per cent of its maximum capacity, which means that it is running practically full, as it is certain amount of idle capacity, resulting from breakdowns, repairs and other causes, is inevitable.

Based upon the rate of new business received there should be little change in untitled tonnage figures during the current month. In other words, functioning business has been slightly in excess of shipments, which must be running at the rate of between 12,000,000 and 13,000,000 tons a year.

A prominent steel producer says: "It looks as though we are going to get an avalanche of new business. As a matter of fact, more business has been coming in than the mills can conveniently handle. A slackening in demand for certain products would be welcome, as it would enable us to catch up with deliveries. Steel prices are moving upward and it looks as though there would be no interruption for some time to come."

The GLOW of the RUBIES

By FRANCIS PERRY ELLIOTT

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

(Copyright, 1911, by Robert B. Gurnea)

"Oh, I see!" She said it musingly, her finger lightly pressing upon her lips, her beautiful eyes studying me with the oddest, keenest side-glance. A pause; and then: "And how long have you known me, pray? Just a—"

"A thousand years!" I said promptly and earnestly. "A thousand years and all my life, don't you know? Never will know you any better."

"Wonder," she murmured, nodding slowly. And then for a moment she didn't say a word, just sat there looking me over curiously, her expression half shy, half quizzical, don't you know.

Then her smile flashed again—a radiant, dazzling brightness that brought her nearer, like the effect of the sun-light's sudden gleam there at times upon the blue line of the "Went Shores" away across the broad, three-mile span of the old Tappan Zoo.

"And now—again her splendid young arms were clasped, wing-like, behind her head; and the sudden glory hung like a picture against the dark vine leaves, blossomed with the clustered purple flowers—"now," she repeated, settling comfortably, "you must just go on and tell me the rest—I can bear it! What did my—her big blue eyes twinkled as she smiled—"my father say about me?"

I shifted uncomfortably. "Oh, I can't, you know!" I demurred. "I say, what's the use, dash it? Poor old boy, somehow I just hated to round on him—he was so jolly hard hit already; Jack, don't you know? Besides—"

"Please!" I jove, how she said it! "Oh, dash it, I'm afraid it will hurt you," I protested uneasily. "And I don't think the judge really—"

"I just don't care that!" a snap from her little fingers and her arm went back—"for anything he ever said about me—that was meant! So, please go on—I must go dress for luncheon."

And so I just took a deep breath, a long running leap, and cleared the bar—told her all, you know!

Oddly, this time she didn't laugh—and I knew why: it was her father, and it had cut her to the heart. This was what I had feared. As I proceeded, narrating the interview in the library, she just grew rosier and rosier red, but sat looking at me wide-eyed and unflinching. The pulsation of her bosom quickened a little, but her dear face remained unchanged, save for her little trick of dragging her underlip through her white teeth.

"And, by Jove, that's all!" I finished with relief as I mopped my face. "But who cares, don't you know, or believes any bit of it? Anyhow, we don't, for we know!"

"Are you sure?" She spoke gravely, yet in her eyes were the dancing star-motes of a laugh. "The extravagance, the gambling, and the—oh, all of it? I must tell you I heard some bad things myself about Francis Billings while I was at Cambridge—" I grunted scornfully. "I know: from the two-faced old, Miss Kirkland! Say, how I wish, by Jove, that woman would pack up and go back to China—the spouse!" And I screwed my glass indignantly.

"Oh, now!" she remonstrated sweetly, "you mustn't say that. You might be sorry!" She smiled archly. I grunted contemptuously. Again she rested her little chin upon her hand, eying me thoughtfully, earnestly.

"And so you don't believe any of it?" I chuckled at the idea. "Oh, I say now, Frances, you know I don't!" And I shoved a bit nearer, looking into her eyes. But just then I saw Wilkes come out and look around.

And she must have glanced about quickly and have seen him, too, for as I shifted my eyes to her again she was blushing furiously and had moved a bit.

"I'm afraid," she said measuredly, her chin lifting a little, "you do believe a part of it." And in her eyes was a glint of fire.

And then as my face fell blankly, a slow little smile came creeping back to her. Her eyes softened.

"Forgive me," she said gently; "I misunderstood!"

"The darling! And, dash it, if they were going to have vines to a pavilion, why didn't they have vines?"

"Do you know," she said, "I don't believe you do believe any of these awful things could be true about me,"—her voice quickened here—"and do you know I just think it's lovely of you! I do!" And her dear voice dropped like the softer notes of a what's-its-name. Her hands lay in her lap, and she was studying me in the kindest, sweetest way! And I wanted to tell her how good she was and how much I loved her, but I knew, and just then, behind the pavilion, came the gardener. He was talking to one of his assistants about slugs—dash slugs!

CHAPTER XXVII.

The Judge Fixes "Foxy Grandpa." But I tell you, sir, he is not my son!

The judge was bending over the desk phone as I looked in a brief hour later. His voice rose in a crescendo of rage: "What's that? That? Do I want to speak with him? Certainly not, sir—and I won't! . . . Um, yes—John W. Billings—yes, that's his name. . . . Stuff and nonsense, sir! He's upstairs now in his room. . . . Says what?—the judge's eyes rolled frowningly upward as he listened; then he licked his lips and bent again, speaking with passionate incisiveness: "Why, damn it, man, I've just this minute been talking to him—just left him, understand. . . . Certainly your man's an impostor—you ought to know that! Yes, this is Judge Billings, himself. Eh? Oh, that's all right, but now let me tell you something—he cleared his throat and gathered his voice in cold, deliberate accents: "You let me be annoyed again from your precinct, and I can promise you that . . . Um, well that's all right then . . . Bye!"

He banged the receiver to the hook and faced about, muttering things to himself.

"Well, upon my word! Of all the—excuse me, Lightnut!" He wiped his forehead, his glance abstracted and scowling. "Somebody is putting this fool up to this—somebody trying to annoy me!" He uttered a short laugh that was more of a snort. "There's some fool lunatic down in New York that they've arrested and he's got a bug that he's my son! This is the second offense. Caused me to lose two hours from my office yesterday in the city and upset me for the whole day! And me so busy! Busy!"—his hands lifted toward the papers on the table—"so busy I can hardly—"

Another snort, and he relighted his cigar, puffing angrily—"look! like there's just one fool thing after another interrupting me or absorbing my time!"

"Jolly shame, you know!" I responded, drooping sympathetically into a chair. I pushed the papers to one side so I could rest my elbow on a table edge; besides, I saw they were troubling him—could tell by his glances, you know.

For another thing, I had got hold of a devilish shrewd idea I wanted to break to him—about this chap who was pretending to be his son. I remembered that the old rascal who had invaded my rooms had tried to make me believe that I was his bosom friend.

"Oh, I say, you know," I began, declining a cigar and selecting a cigarette from my case. "I've an idea!" And I faced him impressively.

"My dear Lightnut!"

"You've what?"—he straightened forward, with a kind of twisted smile—interested, you know—"whatever makes you think that, my boy?" I waited, sending a long, thin smoke funnel upward. Kept him expectant, you see, and gave me time to get hold of the corners of the jolly thing myself. Catch the point? So devilish important when you have to lift an idea, don't you know.

"Rather fancy your chap's the same one I know of." I drawled, "an oldish duffer—white muttonchops—beady sort of face—sunburn line and baldish—all that sort of thing!"

"Well, by-y George!"—he slapped his hand down—"I should say that was a real idea! And you say you know this crazy fool?"

"Crazy? He's not crazy!" I exclaimed indignantly, thinking of her pajamas. "And he's no more fool than I am!"

He fell back with a grunt. "Oh, well, I know—but—" He coughed. By Jove, he seemed disappointed, somehow.

I proceeded calmly: "Real truth is, the beggar's a notorious criminal, known to the police as Foxy Grandpa—pretends all sorts of things about people, don't you know?"

"My dear Lightnut!"—he was staring at me, mouth distended—"why—how the devil do you know this?"

I inhaled deliberately. "Awfully simple, don't you know," I responded, quietly, and I let him wait till I had blown six rings. "Fact is, I'm the one sent him to jail!"

"You!"—his laugh was frankly amused, incredulous.

"Oh, yes!"—carelessly—"found the fellow thieving in my rooms the other night and called in police—oh, they recognized him in a minute!"

He looked floored. "Well, what do you think of that?" he murmured slowly. Then his face flushed and he sat erect. "And so that's all the craziest ruffian is—that's the kind of smart Alex that's been trying to get gay with me—with me!" He started up, snorting like a war-horse—"Huh! Well, two can play at that game, and"—his eyes twinkled wraithfully—"I'll show him, who's got the best hand!"

The rest trailed off in a mutter. He had dropped beside the telephone again, his cigar crushed firmly in the corner of his mouth, his gray moustache bristling aggressively. I tried to trace the family resemblance to Frances, but dashed if I could see a single point. And while I was thinking of this, he got his number.

"Yes, yes," I heard, "I do want to speak to him personally—this is Judge Billings!"—a moment, and then: "Morning, Commissioner—this is Billings. . . . Fine, thank you! . . . Oh, no! No bad effects at all—takes more than that to throw a seasoned old diner like me— . . . What is?"—a cackling chuckle—"yes, I know the diner would loosen him! Had his promise before we left the table: Soakem heard him—so did Benedict. . . . Yes—oh, yes; he's got it—had it with me, you know, in case! . . . No-o-o, of course not; not a single line or scrap!"—a lower drop of tone—"just in a plain, blank envelope—best way always, you know."

Yes, that gives us a safe margin in the senate now, not even counting upon what they do in committee—and Soakem'll take care of that, and . . . Yes, he went back to Albany this morning—he says the bill's safely under'n Hector now. . . . Er, by the way, Commissioner, the judge cleared his throat and his voice sobered: "Little favor I want to ask—m'm! I'm being greatly annoyed by some low vagabond confined at one of the stations. . . . Yes, I really mean it!—Captain Clutch-om's precinct, you know—and this ruffian insists to them that he's my son. . . . No, indeed, I'm not joking at all. . . . All right, you may laugh, but I fail to appreciate the funny side, myself—especially now, you know, when I'm up to my neck in this merger case. . . . How's that? What do I want done? Oh, I wouldn't venture to say as to that! I leave that to you! I know."

Yes, I understand all that, but—wait—wait just a minute! Now you listen—

The judge concentrated more intently over the instrument.

"You know what you asked me to do when I saw you last night—and I refused"—another voice drop—"with the mayor, you know? Well—now listen—you make assurance that this scoundrel will not bother me for thirty days and—well, I give you my word that I'll do all I can to bring things the way you want. . . . Good!"

What'll you do with him? Why, what in Sam Hill do I care what you do with him? . . . Oh, but say, Commissioner, yes, I do care, too!"—a laugh here like a jolly dand—"I shouldn't like for him to be put away off in some idle, damp, dark cell to cool off—ha! ha! he!—y-understand?"

He got so worked up in his chuckling and giggling that he couldn't get out another word for a moment. Then—

"Oh, no! Certainly not; nor one too hot and airless, as you say—hell, hell! And don't put him—don't put him—" the judge was gasping for air now—"don't put him on bread and water, or anything of that kind, nor in a cell with rude, rough men who would tame his playful spirit—ha! he! he!—oh, don't do that! . . . What say? I didn't quite catch—" And then, dash it, it seemed he did catch it, for he began waving his arm and pounding the desk. "Oh—oh, no, that would be too bad—really! . . . Eh? Oh, well, you know best—it's up to you now! . . . Bye, and many thanks, Commissioner! Eh? All right, tomorrow then at one at the Lawyers' Club—you can go over again the points of what you want with the mayor, 'Bye!"

HIGH SCHOOL IS AN EASY WINNER

on Sligo Field Saturday.

VISITORS ARE OUTCLASSED

Locals Show Good Form and Indicate
They Will Make Good Showing.
New Material Shows Up to That Lost Through Graduation Last Year.

Mt. Pleasant High School failed to show form Saturday afternoon at the Sligo grounds and High School had little difficulty in prying off the lid of the local baseball season with an overwhelming 20 to 3 victory. There were six new faces on the Sligo team, but the hitting ability displayed there is no reason to think the team is deteriorated.

The three Mt. Pleasant pitchers, Cort, Stillwagon and Eaton, and nothing in the curve line and found difficulty locating the plate. Cort had the best success of the trio but was forced from the mound after that murderous hitting sequence in the fourth and fifth innings. Stillwagon succeeded but after twirling for two-thirds of an inning gave way to Eaton. High School made few hits off Eaton, principally on account of his inability to find home plate. The man with the flourishing delivery walked four in a row and hit one. These, interspersed with a two-base hit and several stolen bases, netted five runs.

For Mt. Pleasant, Musser seemed to be the only player of ability. High School stole bases on him standing up but this was due to having a wooden man on second. Port twirled nice ball for the five innings he pitched. Kell, with his Sam Leaver delivery, was only effective in pinches.

Mt. Pleasant was hopelessly outclassed but played hard during the entire game.

The visiting team is to be congratulated on its showing both on and off the field. The Little Westmoreland country High School is struggling against heavy odds this year in an athletic way. For three years there have been no High School athletics and with a small body of students to pick from were unable to cope with schools of a larger number of students. The score:

HIGH SCHOOL'S CHANCES WITH UNIONTOWN LOOK VERY GOOD

Local Team Has Better Chance Than Ever Before—All Old Places
Well Filled.

High School's first test this year will come next Saturday when Uniontown will play here. In baseball the county seat students have always had the number of the boys from here but this year the chances of the locals seem to be better than for years. Uniontown's team in all shot to pieces the combination of Coughanour, Buel and Johnston has been broken up and there is no reason to believe that they have uncovered players of their ability. White is missing behind the bat and the only man left in the outfield is Dryer. Sam Coughanour is left as a pitching mainstay and on him lie Uniontown's only hopes.

In the new men of this year, High School seems to have uncovered a bunch of sluggers. Although the Mt. Pleasant pitching was of the curvaceous kind the boys all took good healthy swings at the ball and it usually went somewhere. Porter will as usual lead the hitters this year although Jones, the catcher looks like a slugger. His two swipes into the creek Saturday testify to this.

NORTH UNION TRIMS DUNBAR TOWNSHIP HIGH IN OPENER

Team From Leisening Plays Good Ball But Visitors Play Better.

North Union was in the game up to the handle on Saturday in its game with the Dunbar township High School, winning out 5 to 1. The game was close all the way and some good baseball displayed. The contest was played at Leisening Barnhart and here Dunbar pitcher pitched for Dunbar township and Union was on the mound for North Union.

Effort are being made to bring Perryopolis High School to Leisening on Saturday. The Saturdays following, Dunbar township plays a return game with North Union at that place.

O. & P. Notes.

Bob Coulson who played with Chartered in the Pawa league under the name of Robb has called in the big show for this time and has been shipped to the Newark club of the International league.

Manager Smith of New Castle has announced that his team will not play any exhibition games this year.

John Hogan, brother of Marty Hogan, the minor league manager, has signed to play the outfield for New Castle. He is 22 years of age. Marty gave him a tryout some time ago in the Tri-State league but this younger brother was not seasoned enough to stick.

Pearson, who formerly played with Scottville in the West Penn and Pawa leagues, will again be at the head of the Irwin Independent team this year. Ferguson runs a pool room at Irwin and plays ball on the side. He is a second baseman.

QUIT CALOMEL!

A Safe Vegetable Substitute For Olive Tablets For the Liver.

Thousands Are Turning From This Dangerous Drug

Dr. F. M. Edwards a prominent physician of Portsmouth, Ohio has discovered a new laxative and liver tonic in a combination of vegetable materials, mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like the old and unpalatable calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers. His distrust of the unrefined drug eventually started him years ago towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he is today in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar coated, olive-oil colored tablet.

The results of fifteen years' experiment and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets. They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, and their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients, as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

They are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and cleansing the system of harmful impurities.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."
